- At 5 p.m. on 26 July 5 miles southeast of Taegu, South Korean troops were observed with 51 captured North Korean troops in regular North Korean People's Army uniforms who were sent to Taegu in two trucks at about 5:30 p.m. A South Korean soldier guarding the POW's said the prisoners were captured approximately 8 miles southeast of Taegu; they were part of a small North Korean unit routed by South Korean troops in that area.
- The headquarters of North Korean 55 (sic) elements, which captured Yongdok on the night of 26 July, are now approximately 10 miles north of Yongdok.
- The main force of the North Korean 7 Division is in the Punggi area.
- After the ceremonies opening the South Korean National Assembly on the morning of 27 July at a theater in Taegu, the Assembly held a secret session at 2 p.m. attended by President RHEE, the cabinet and 224 Assembly members. The session passed a resolution to send a letter of gratitude to MacArthur for military aid and supplies given to South Korea. The Assembly also passed a resolution to discuss the need for changes in RHEE's cabinet at an open meeting of the Assembly at 10 a.m. on 28 July.
